DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 05/14/07 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over LaCombe (US 5872890) in view of common knowledge.

Lacombe discloses the claimed invention including, inter alia, a flow through tube made of solid material surrounding the heating rod within the flow path, a plurality of temperature sensors located to determine the temperature and flow of fluid both at the inlet and outlet of the flow path, the sensors located on the top portion of the path with respect to gravity, a circulation pump and temperature control system responsive to the plurality of temperature sensors. It is noted that it has been held that the recitation that an element is "adapted to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138. LaCombe does not explicitly teach the use of a temperature sensor positioned inside a sleeve surrounding the heating element, however, such is well known in the art of tubular electric heaters as is evidenced by Johnson, House, Booker and Fort. Johnson, House, Booker and Fort all disclose immersion heaters wherein the heating element is housed within a sleeve intended to be immersed in a fluid in order to heat said fluid. Within the sleeves of these devices are positioned temperature sensors of varying construction. The sensors are provided within the sleeves in order to provide more accurate sensing of the temperature of the sleeve. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the LaCombe device to include temperature sensors positioned inside the tubular heating element in order to accurately sense the temperature of the sleeve since the sleeve is in contact with the fluid being heated.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 2/22/06 have been fully considered but they are moot on grounds of the new rejections.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
